Book a Free Virtual Consultation: Now Available for Members

article, intersectionality, advocacy resources, fundraising, trans activists

At TGEU, we believe in engaging and supporting our members and strengthening their capacities to collectively and sustainably organise their activism. With this goal in mind, we are now inviting all member organisations to register for a virtual 1-1 consultation call. The deadline for registration for this round of consultations is 15 August 2022.

TGEU will offer support in the following areas:

- Wellbeing, including activist and/or organisation wellbeing and burn-out prevention.
- Movement building, including community organising, team building, facilitation, networking.
- Media and campaigning, including campaigns, communications strategy, events organising.
- Fundraising and project management.
- Policy and advocacy, including designing strategies for engagement with key actors at national and regional levels.
- Strategic litigation, including strategies on going to court using European courts and international human rights law.

Who can receive a consultation?

Individuals and teams who are TGEU members are welcome to participate. Only one person can register on behalf of the team.

We are ready to serve and support you. Book an hour-long individualised consultation in English or Russian.

Groups led by or working with further marginalised groups who are trans; Black people and people of colour, D/deaf and disabled people, people with a migration background, and sex workers are highly encouraged to book a call.

You can delegate a representative to register for a session, which will then be scheduled with the relevant team. Although only one person can register on behalf of the organisation, you are free to bring your colleagues to the meeting.

We look forward to connecting with you!
